

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser

1964—

DOUBLE MANGOSTEEN VARIATIONS

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser
was born on June 26, 1964 in Barnes Naval Hospital, Saint Louis, Missouri, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's
favorite activity as a child was playing and watching sports: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's first job was working stringing tennis rackets at a sporting goods store in Falmouth, Massachusetts, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's mother was born in Buffalo, New York, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was born in Indianapolis, Indiana, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was a naval officer: As a child
Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lived in Saint Louis, Missouri, USA: Richmond, Virginia, USA: Chesapeake, Virginia, USA: Norfolk, Virginia, USA: Portsmouth, Virginia, USA: Virginia Beach, Virginia, USA: Cherry Hill,
New Jersey, USA: Valley Stream, Long Island, New York, USA: Kingston, Massachusetts, USA: As a child
Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loved the beach: Swimming: Aquariums: Baseball: Tennis: Now: Christopher
Thompson Funkhouser lives in Frelinghuysen Township Warren County, New Jersey: As an adult Christopher
Thompson Funkhouser loves his family: Heat: Running: Hydrotherapy: Unconventional poetry: Zazen: Mineral water: Brazil: Mangosteens: The rind of this edible fruit is deep reddish purple when ripe: The fragrant flesh is sweet and creamy citrusy with a touch of peach flavor: In Asia the mangosteen fruit is known as the Queen of Fruits: The shell of mangosteens looks tough and hard but they are soft and easy to open: To open a mangosteen the shell is usually broken apart not cut: One holds the fruit in both hands and presses it gently thumbs on one side the other fingers on the other side until the shell cracks: It is then very easy to pull the halves apart along the crack and remove the fruit taking care with the purplish inky juice that the outer red part of the fruit contains: Mangosteen juice is a dye which can be almost impossible to remove from fabric: This is the reason why they are banned from some hotels in countries where they are available: The softer the shell: The riper the fruit: Hence the more tempting it is to try and press harder: Since it isn't exactly a shell but a thick soft covering the slightest force when ripe will dig into the shell and adversely affect the fruit inside: The fruit will not stay good for long afterwards: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser favorite animal is Groundhog: The favorite idea of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is everything changes: The favorite object of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is his Saint Christopher medal on the back of which is hyperspirit etched: Saint Christopher the giant was carrying the baby Jesus across a stream: Saint Christopher asked the baby Jesus why he was so heavy: The baby Jesus said: Because I bear the sins of the world: Saint Christopher said: No you don't: Don't talk about your Self that way: You are a beautiful little human being: Get into love: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser earns his living as an Associate Professor: New Jersey Institute of Technology: Newark: New Jersey: USA: The aim of the art of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is a conduitive process: To build bridges between what he sees and under stands and things he can't see and understand: The aim of the life of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is to see as much of the world as possible and learn within it: And now I will say farewell to you: And I will sing of another man of cyber poetry hypertext poetry digital poetry performance poetry shape poetry prehistoric digital poetry e poetry interactive active passive indifferent positive negative neutral dawn dusk noon midnight sun moon star poetry too:

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser

1964—

DOUBLE MANGOSTEEN VARIATIONS

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser
was born on June 26, 1964 in Barnes Naval Hospital, Saint Louis: Missouri: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's
favorite activity as a child was playing and watching sports: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's first job was working stringing tennis rackets at a sporting
goods store in Falmouth: Massachusetts: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's mother
was born in Buffalo: New York: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was born in Indianapolis: Indiana: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was a naval officer: As a child
Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lived in Saint Louis: Missouri: USA: Richmond: Virginia: USA: Chesapeake:
Virginia: USA: Norfolk: Virginia: USA: Portsmouth: Virginia: USA: Virginia Beach: Virginia: USA: Cherry Hill
New Jersey: USA: Valley Stream: Long Island: New York: USA: Kingston: Massachusetts: USA: As a child
Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loved the beach: Swimming: Aquariums: Baseball: Tennis: Now: Christopher
Thompson Funkhouser lives in Frelinghuysen Township Warren County: New Jersey: As an adult Christopher
Thompson Funkhouser loves his family: Heat: Running: Hydrotherapy: Unconventional poetry: Zazen: Mineral water:
Brazil: Mangosteens: The rind of this edible fruit is deep reddish purple when ripe: The fragrant flesh is sweet and
creamy citrusy with a touch of peach flavor: In Asia the mangosteen fruit is known as the Queen of Fruits: The shell of
mangosteens looks tough and hard but they are soft and easy to open: To open a mangosteen the shell is usually broken
apart not cut: One holds the fruit in both hands and presses it gently thumbs on one side the other fingers on the other side until the shell cracks: It is then very easy to pull the halves apart along the crack and remove the fruit taking care
with the purplish inky juice that the outer red part of the fruit contains: Mangosteen juice is a dye which can be almost impossible to remove from fabric: This is the reason why they are banned from some hotels in countries where they are available: The softer the shell: The riper the fruit: Hence the more tempting it is to try and press harder: Since
it isn't exactly a shell but a thick soft covering the slightest force when ripe will dig into the shell and adversely affect the fruit inside: The fruit will not stay good for long afterwards: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser
favorite animal is Groundhog: The favorite idea of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is everything changes: The favorite object of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is his Saint Christopher medal on the back of which is hyperspirit etched: Saint Christopher the giant was carrying the baby Jesus
across a stream: Saint Christopher asked the baby Jesus why he was so heavy: The baby Jesus said: Because I bear the sins of the world: Saint Christopher said: No you don't: Don't talk about your self that way: You are a beautiful little human being: Get into love: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser earns his living as an Associate Professor: New Jersey Institute of Technology: Newark: New Jersey: USA: The aim of the art of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is a conduitive process: To build bridges between what he sees and under stands and things he can't see and understand: The aim of the life of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is to see as much of the world as possible and learn
within it: And now I will say farewell to you: And I will sing of another
man of cyber poetry hypertext poetry digital poetry performance
poetry shape poetry prehistoric digital poetry e poetry interactive
active passive indifferent positive negative neutral dawn dusk noon midnight sun moon star and peaches and pears that are ripe poetry too:

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser

1964 —

DOUBLE MANGOSTEEN VARIATIONS

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser was born on June 26, 1964 in Barnes Naval Hospital, Saint Louis, Missouri, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's favorite activity as a child was playing and watching sports: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's first job was working stringing tennis rackets at a sporting goods store in Falmouth, Massachusetts, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's mother was born in Buffalo, New York, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was born in Indianapolis, Indiana, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was a naval officer: As a child Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lived in Saint Louis, Missouri, USA: Richmond, Virginia, USA: Chesapeake, Virginia, USA: Norfolk, Virginia, USA: Portsmouth, Virginia, USA: Virginia Beach, Virginia, USA: Cherry Hill, New Jersey, USA: Valley Stream, Long Island, New York, USA: Kingston, Massachusetts, USA: As a child Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loved the beach: Swimming: Aquariums: Baseball: Tennis: Now: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lives in Frelinghuysen Township Warren County, New Jersey: As an adult Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loves his family: Heat: Running: Hydrotherapy: Unconventional poetry: Zazen: Mineral water: Brazil: Mangosteens: The rind of this edible fruit is deep reddish purple when ripe: The fragrant flesh is sweet and creamy citrusy with a touch of peach flavor: In Asia the mangosteen fruit is known as the Queen of Fruits: The shell of mangosteens looks tough and hard but they are soft and easy to open: To open a mangosteen the shell is usually broken apart not cut: One holds the fruit in both hands and presses it gently thumbs on one side the other fingers on the other side until the shell cracks: It is then very easy to pull the halves apart along the crack and remove the fruit taking care with the purplish inky juice that the outer red part of the fruit contains: Mangosteen juice is a dye which can be almost impossible to remove from fabric: This is the reason why they are banned from some hotels in countries where they are available: The softer the shell: The riper the fruit: Hence the more tempting it is to try and press harder: Since it isn't exactly a shell but a thick soft covering the slightest force when ripe will dig into the shell and adversely affect the fruit inside: The fruit will not stay good for long afterwards: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser favorite animal is Groundhog: The favorite idea of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is everything changes: The favorite object of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is his Saint Christopher medal on the back of which is hyperspirit etched: Saint Christopher the giant was carrying the baby Jesus across a stream: Saint Christopher asked the baby Jesus why he was so heavy: The baby Jesus said: Because I bear the sins of the world: Saint Christopher said: No you don't: Don't talk about your Self that way: You are a beautiful little human being: Get into love: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser earns his living as an Associate Professor: New Jersey Institute of Technology: Newark: New Jersey: USA: The aim of the art of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is a conduitive process: To build bridges between what he sees and under stands and things he can't see and understand: The aim of the life of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is to see as much of the world as possible and learn within it: And now I will say farewell to you: And I will sing of another man of cyber poetry hypertext poetry digital poetry performance poetry shape poetry prehistoric digital poetry e poetry interactive active passive indifferent positive negative neutral dawn dusk noon midnight sun moon star poetry too:

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser

1964 —

DOUBLE MANGOSTEEN VARIATIONS

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser was born on June 26, 1964 in Barnes Naval Hospital, Saint Louis: Missouri: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's favorite activity as a child was playing and watching sports: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's first job was working stringing tennis rackets at a sporting goods store in Falmouth: Massachusetts: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's mother was born in Buffalo: New York: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was born in Indianapolis: Indiana: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was a naval officer: As a child Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lived in Saint Louis: Missouri: USA: Richmond: Virginia: USA: Chesapeake: Virginia: USA: Norfolk: Virginia: USA: Portsmouth: Virginia: USA: Virginia Beach: Virginia: USA: Cherry Hill New Jersey: USA: Valley Stream: Long Island: New York: USA: Kingston: Massachusetts: USA: As a child Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loved the beach: Swimming: Aquariums: Baseball: Tennis: Now: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lives in Frelinghuysen Township Warren County: New Jersey: As an adult Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loves his family: Heat: Running: Hydrotherapy: Unconventional poetry: Zazen: Mineral water: Brazil: Mangosteens: The rind of this edible fruit is deep reddish purple when ripe: The fragrant flesh is sweet and creamy citrusy with a touch of peach flavor: In Asia the mangosteen fruit is known as the Queen of Fruits: The shell of mangosteens looks tough and hard but they are soft and easy to open: To open a mangosteen the shell is usually broken apart not cut: One holds the fruit in both hands and presses it gently thumbs on one side the other fingers on the other side until the shell cracks: It is then very easy to pull the halves apart along the crack and remove the fruit taking care with the purplish inky juice that the outer red part of the fruit contains: Mangosteen juice is a dye which can be almost impossible to remove from fabric: This is the reason why they are banned from some hotels in countries where they are available: The softer the shell: The riper the fruit: Hence the more tempting it is to try and press harder: Since it isn't exactly a shell but a thick soft covering the slightest force when ripe will dig into the shell and adversely affect the fruit inside: The fruit will not stay good for long afterwards: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser favorite animal is Groundhog: The favorite idea of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is everything changes: The favorite object of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is his Saint Christopher medal on the back of which is hyperspirit etched: Saint Christopher the giant was carrying the baby Jesus across a stream: Saint Christopher asked the baby Jesus why he was so heavy: The baby Jesus said: Because I bear the sins of the world: Saint Christopher said: No you don't: Don't talk about your self that way: You are a beautiful little human being: Get into love: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser earns his living as an Associate Professor: New Jersey Institute of Technology: Newark: New Jersey: USA: The aim of the art of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is a conduitive process: To build bridges between what he sees and understands and things he can't see and understand: The aim of the life of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is to see as much of the world as possible and learn within it: And now I will say farewell to you: And I will sing of another man of cyber poetry hypertext poetry digital poetry performance poetry shape poetry prehistoric digital poetry e poetry interactive active passive indifferent positive negative neutral dawn dusk noon midnight sun moon star and peaches and pears that are ripe poetry too:

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser

1964 —

DOUBLE MANGOSTEEN VARIATIONS

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser
was born on June 26, 1964 in Barnes Naval Hospital, Saint Louis: Missouri: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's
favorite activity as a child was playing and watching sports: Christopher Funkhouser's first job was working stringing tennis rackets at a spa re in Falmouth: Massachusetts: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser Buffalo: New York: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was : Indiana: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was a naval officer Thompson Funkhouser lived in Saint Louis: Missouri: USA: Richmond: Virginia: USA: A: Norfolk: Virginia: USA: Portsmouth: Virginia: USA: Virginia Beach: Virginia: USA: USA: Valley Stream: Long Island: New York: USA: Kingston: Massachusetts: USA Thompson Funkhouser loved the beach: Swimming: Aquariums: Baseball: Tennis: Now: Funkhouser lives in Frelinghuysen Township Warren County: New Jersey: As an adult Funkhouser loves his family: Heat: Running: Hydrotherapy: Unconventional poetry: Zazen: Mi gosteens: The rind of this edible fruit is deep reddish purple when ripe: The fragrant flesh is sly with a touch of peach flavor: In Asia the mangosteen fruit is known as the Queen of Fruits: s looks tough and hard but they are soft and easy to open: To open a mangosteen the shell is usu t: One holds the fruit in both hands and presses it gently thumbs on one side the other fingers e shell cracks: It is then very easy to pull the halves apart along the crack and remove the fru plish inky juice that the outer red part of the fruit contains: Mangosteen juice is a dye which ric: This is the r are banned fr s w im are it isn't affect the fru favorite animal i changes: The favorit
the back of which is hyperspirit etched: Saint Christopher the giant was carrying the baby Jesus
across a stream: Saint Christopher asked the baby Jesus why he was so heavy: The baby Jesus
said: Because I bear the sins of the world: Saint Christopher said: No you don't: Don't talk about your self that way: You are a beautiful little human being: Get into love: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser earns his living as an Associate Professor: New Jersey Institute of Technology: Newark: New Jersey: USA: The aim of the art of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is a conduitive process: To build bridges between what he sees and under stands and things he can't see and understand: The aim of the life of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is to see as much of the world as possible and learn
within it: And now I will say farewell to you: And I will sing of another
man of cyber poetry hypertext poetry digital poetry performance
poetry shape poetry prehistoric digital poetry e poetry interactive
active passive indifferent positive negative neutral dawn
dusk noon midnight sun moon star and peaches
and pears that are ripe poetry too:
r e st ey nce sely Funkhouser
ser is everything int Christopher medal on

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser

1964 —

DOUBLE MANGOSTEEN VARIATIONS

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser was born on June 26, 1964 in Barnes Naval Hospital, Saint Louis, Missouri, USA; Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's favorite activity as a child was playing and watching sports; Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's first job was working stringing tennis rackets at a sporting goods store in Falmouth, Massachusetts, USA; Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's mother was born in Buffalo, New York, USA; Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was born in Indianapolis, Indiana, USA; Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was a naval officer; As a child Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lived in Saint Louis, Missouri, USA; Richmond, Virginia, USA; Chesapeake, Virginia, USA; Norfolk, Virginia, USA; Portsmouth, Virginia, USA; Virginia Beach, Virginia, USA; Cherry Hill, New Jersey, USA; Valley Stream, Long Island, New York, USA; Kingston, Massachusetts, USA; As a child Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loved the beach; Swimming; Aquariums; Baseball; Tennis; Now; Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lives in Frelinghuysen Township Warren County, New Jersey; As an adult Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loves his family; Heat; Running; Hydrotherapy; Unconventional poetry; Zazen; Mineral water; Brazil; Mangosteens; The rind of this edible fruit is deep reddish purple when ripe; The fragrant flesh is sweet and creamy citrusy with a touch of peach flavor; In Asia the mangosteen fruit is known as the Queen of Fruits; The shell of mangosteens looks tough and hard but they are soft and easy to open; To open a mangosteen the shell is usually broken apart not cut; One holds the fruit in both hands and presses it gently thumbs on one side the other fingers on the other side until the shell cracks; It is then very easy to pull the halves apart along the crack and remove the fruit taking care with the purplish inky juice that the outer red part of the fruit contains; Mangosteen juice is a dye which can be almost impossible to remove from fabric; This is the reason why they are banned from some hotels in countries where they are available; The softer the shell; The riper the fruit; Hence the more tempting it is to try and press harder; Since it isn't exactly a shell but a thick soft covering the slightest force when ripe will dig into the shell and adversely affect the fruit inside; The fruit will not stay good for long afterwards; Christopher Thompson Funkhouser favorite animal is Groundhog; The favorite idea of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is everything changes; The favorite object of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is his Saint Christopher medal on the back of which is hyperspirit etched; Saint Christopher the giant was carrying the baby Jesus across a stream; Saint Christopher asked the baby Jesus why he was so heavy; The baby Jesus said; Because I bear the sins of the world; Saint Christopher said; No you don't; Don't talk about your self that way; You are a beautiful little human being; Get into love; Christopher Thompson Funkhouser carries his living as an Associate Professor; New Jersey Institute of Technology; Newark, New Jersey, USA; The aim of the art of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is a continuing process; To build bridges between what he sees and understands and things he can't see and understand; The aim of the life of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is to see as much of the world as possible and learn within it; And now I will say farewell to you; And I will sing of another man of cyber poetry hypertext poetry digital poetry performance poetry share poetry precision digital poetry & poetry interactive active passive indifferent positive negative partial dawn dusk noon midnight sun moon star poetry ion

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser

1964 —

DOUBLE MANGOSTEEN VARIATIONS

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser was born on June 26, 1964 in Barnes Naval Hospital, Saint Louis, Missouri, USA; Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's favorite activity as a child was playing and watching sports; Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's first job was working stringing tennis rackets at a sporting goods store in Falmouth, Massachusetts, USA; Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's mother was born in Buffalo, New York, USA; Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was born in Indianapolis, Indiana, USA; Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was a naval officer; As a child Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lived in Saint Louis, Missouri, USA; Richmond, Virginia, USA; Chesapeake, Virginia, USA; Norfolk, Virginia, USA; Portsmouth, Virginia, USA; Virginia Beach, Virginia, USA; Cherry Hill, New Jersey, USA; Valley Stream, Long Island, New York, USA; Kingston, Massachusetts, USA; As a child Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loved the beach; Swimming; Aquariums; Baseball; Tennis; Now: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lives in Frelinghuysen Township Warren County, New Jersey; As an adult Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loves his family; Heat; Running; Hydrotherapy; Unconventional poetry; Zazen; Mineral water; Brazil; Mangosteens: The rind of this edible fruit is deep reddish purple when ripe: The fragrant flesh is sweet and creamy citrusy with a touch of peach flavor: In Asia the mangosteen fruit is known as the Queen of Fruits: The shell of mangosteens looks tough and hard but they are soft and easy to open: To open a mangosteen the shell is usually broken apart not cut: One holds the fruit in both hands and presses it gently thumbs on one side the other fingers on the other side until the shell cracks: It is then very easy to pull the halves apart along the crack and remove the fruit taking care with the purplish inky juice that the outer red part of the fruit contains: Mangosteen juice is a dye which can be almost impossible to remove from fabric: This is the reason why they are banned from some hotels in countries where they are available: The softer the shell: The riper the fruit: Hence the more tempting it is to try and press harder: Since it isn't exactly a shell but a thick soft covering the slightest force when ripe will dig into the shell and adversely affect the fruit inside: The fruit will not stay good for long afterwards: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser favorite animal is Groundhog: The favorite idea of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is every thing changes: The favorite object of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is his Saint Christopher medal on the back of which is hyperspirit etched: Saint Christopher the giant was carrying the baby Jesus across a stream: Saint Christopher asked the baby Jesus why he was so heavy: The baby Jesus said: Because I bear the sins of the world: Saint Christopher said: No you don't: Don't talk about your self that way: You are a beautiful little human being: Get into love: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser earns his living as an Associate Professor: New Jersey Institute of Technology: Newark, New Jersey, USA: The aim of the art of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is a conducive process: To build bridges between what he sees and understands and things he can't see and understand: The aim of the life of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is to see as much of the world as possible and learn within it: And now I will say farewell to you: And I will sing of another man of cyber poetry hypertext poetry digital poetry performance poetry shape poetry prehistoric digital poetry e poetry interactive active passive indifferent positive negative neutral dawn dusk noon midnight sun moon star and peaches and pears that are ripe poetry too

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser

1964 —

DOUBLE MANGOSTEEN VARIATIONS

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser was born on June 26, 1964 in Barnes Naval Hospital, Saint Louis, Missouri, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's favorite activity as a child was playing and watching sports: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's first job was working stringing tennis rackets at a sporting goods store in Falmouth, Massachusetts, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's mother was born in Buffalo, New York, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was born in Indianapolis, Indiana, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was a naval officer: As a child Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lived in Saint Louis, Missouri, USA: Richmond, Virginia, USA: Chesapeake, Virginia, USA: Norfolk, Virginia, USA: Portsmouth, Virginia, USA: Virginia Beach, Virginia, USA: Cherry Hill, New Jersey, USA: Valley Stream, Long Island, New York, USA: Kingston, Massachusetts, USA: As a child Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loved the beach: Swimming: Aquariums: Baseball: Tennis: Now: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lives in Frelinghuysen Township Warren County, New Jersey: As an adult Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loves his family: Heat: Running: Hydrotherapy: Unconventional poetry: Zazen: Mineral water: Brazil: Mangosteens: The rind of this edible fruit is deep reddish purple when ripe: The fragrant flesh is sweet and creamy citrusy with a touch of peach flavor: In Asia the mangosteen fruit is known as the Queen of Fruits: The shell of mangosteens looks tough and hard but they are soft and easy to open: To open a mangosteen the shell is usually broken apart not cut: One holds the fruit in both hands and presses it gently thumbs on one side the other fingers on the other side until the shell cracks: It is then very easy to pull the halves apart along the crack and remove the fruit taking care with the purplish inky juice that the outer red part of the fruit contains: Mangosteen juice is a dye which can be almost impossible to remove from fabric: This is the reason why they are banned from some hotels in countries where they are available: The softer the shell: The riper the fruit: Hence the more tempting it is to try and press harder: Since it isn't exactly a shell but a thick soft covering the slightest force when ripe will dig into the shell and adversely affect the fruit inside: The fruit will not stay good for long afterwards: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser favorite animal is Groundhog: The favorite idea of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is everything changes: The favorite object of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is his Saint Christopher medal on the back of which is hyperspirit etched: Saint Christopher the giant was carrying the baby Jesus across a stream: Saint Christopher asked the baby Jesus why he was so heavy: The baby Jesus said: Because I bear the sins of the world: Saint Christopher said: No you don't: Don't talk about your Self that way: You are a beautiful little human being: Get into love: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser earns his living as an Associate Professor, New Jersey Institute of Technology, Newark, New Jersey, USA: The aim of the art of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is a conduitive process: To build bridges between what he sees and understands and things he can't see and understand: The aim of the life of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is to see as much of the world as possible and learn within it: And now I will say farewell to you: And I will sing of another man of cyber poetry hypertext poetry digital poetry performance poetry shape poetry prehistoric digital poetry e poetry interactive active passive indifferent positive negative neutral dawn dusk noon midnight sun moon star poetry too:

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser

1964 —

DOUBLE MANGOSTEEN VARIATIONS

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser
was born on June 26, 1964 in Barnes Naval Hospital, Saint Louis: Missouri: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's
favorite activity as a child was playing and watching sports: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's first job was working stringing tennis rackets at a sporting
goods store in Falmouth: Massachusetts: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's mother
was born in Buffalo: New York: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was born in Indianapolis: Indiana: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was a naval officer: As a child
Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lived in Saint Louis: Missouri: USA: Richmond: Virginia: USA: Chesapeake:
Virginia: USA: Norfolk: Virginia: USA: Portsmouth: Virginia: USA: Virginia Beach: Virginia: USA: Cherry Hill
New Jersey: USA: Valley Stream: Long Island: New York: USA: Kingston: Massachusetts: USA: As a child
Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loved the beach: Swimming: Aquariums: Baseball: Tennis: Now: Christopher
Thompson Funkhouser lives in Frelinghuysen Township Warren County: New Jersey: As an adult Christopher
Thompson Funkhouser loves his family: Heat: Running: Hydrotherapy: Unconventional poetry: Zazen: Mineral water:
Brazil: Mangosteens: The rind of this edible fruit is deep reddish purple when ripe: The fragrant flesh is sweet and
creamy citrusy with a touch of peach flavor: In Asia the mangosteen fruit is known as the Queen of Fruits: The shell of
mangosteens looks tough and hard but they are soft and easy to open: To open a mangosteen the shell is usually broken
apart not cut: One holds the fruit in both hands and presses it gently thumbs on one side the other fingers on the other side until the shell cracks: It is then very easy to pull the halves apart along the crack and remove the fruit taking care
with the purplish inky juice that the outer red part of the fruit contains: Mangosteen juice is a dye which can be almost impossible to remove from fabric: This is the reason why they are banned from some hotels in countries where they are available: The softer the shell: The riper the fruit: Hence the more tempting it is to try and press harder: Since
it isn't exactly a shell but a thick soft covering the slightest force when ripe will dig into the shell and adversely affect the fruit inside: The fruit will not stay good for long afterwards: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser
favorite animal is Groundhog: The favorite idea of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is everything changes: The favorite object of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is his Saint Christopher medal on the back of which is hyperspirit etched: Saint Christopher the giant was carrying the baby Jesus
across a stream: Saint Christopher asked the baby Jesus why he was so heavy: The baby Jesus
said: Because I bear the sins of the world: Saint Christopher said: No you don't: Don't talk about your Self that way: You are a beautiful little human being: Get into love: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser earns his living as an Associate Professor: New Jersey Institute of Technology: Newark: New Jersey: USA: The aim of the art of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is a conducive process: To build bridges between what he sees and under stands and things he can't see and understand: The aim of the life of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is to see as much of the world as possible and learn
within it: And now I will say farewell to you: And I will sing of another
man of cyber poetry hypertext poetry digital poetry performance
poetry shape poetry prehistoric digital poetry e poetry interactive
active passive indifferent positive negative neutral dawn
dusk noon midnight sun moon star and peaches
and pears that are ripe poetry too:

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser

1964 —

DOUBLE MANGOSTEEN VARIATIONS

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser was born on June 26, 1964 in Barnes Naval Hospital, Saint Louis, Missouri, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's favorite activity as a child was playing and watching sports: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's first job was working stringing tennis rackets at a sporting goods store in Falmouth, Massachusetts, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's mother was born in Buffalo, New York, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was born in Indianapolis, Indiana, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was a naval officer: As a child Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lived in Saint Louis, Missouri, USA: Richmond, Virginia, USA: Chesapeake, Virginia, USA: Norfolk, Virginia, USA: Portsmouth, Virginia, USA: Virginia Beach, Virginia, USA: Cherry Hill, New Jersey, USA: Valley Stream, Long Island, New York, USA: Kingston, Massachusetts, USA: As a child Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loved the beach: Swimming: Aquariums: Baseball: Tennis: Now: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lives in Frelinghuysen Township Warren County, New Jersey: As an adult Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loves his family: Heat: Running: Hydrotherapy: Unconventional poetry: Zazen: Mineral water: Brazil: Mangosteens: The rind of this edible fruit is deep reddish purple when ripe: The fragrant flesh is sweet and creamy citrusy with a touch of peach flavor: In Asia the mangosteen fruit is known as the Queen of Fruits: The shell of mangosteens looks tough and hard but they are soft and easy to open: To open a mangosteen the shell is usually broken apart not cut: One holds the fruit in both hands and presses it gently thumbs on one side the other fingers on the other side until the shell cracks: It is then very easy to pull the halves apart along the crack and remove the fruit taking care with the purplish inky juice that the outer red part of the fruit contains: Mangosteen juice is a dye which can be almost impossible to remove from fabric: This is the reason why they are banned from some hotels in countries where they are available: The softer the shell: The riper the fruit: Hence the more tempting it is to try and press harder: Since it isn't exactly a shell but a thick soft covering the slightest force when ripe will dig into the shell and adversely affect the fruit inside: The fruit will not stay good for long afterwards: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser favorite animal is Groundhog: The favorite idea of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is everything changes: The favorite object of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is his Saint Christopher medal on the back of which is hyperspirit etched: Saint Christopher the giant was carrying the baby Jesus across a stream: Saint Christopher asked the baby Jesus why he was so heavy: The baby Jesus said: Because I bear the sins of the world: Saint Christopher said: No you don't: Don't talk about your self that way: You are a beautiful little human being: Get into love: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser earns his living as an Associate Professor, New Jersey Institute of Technology, Newark, New Jersey, USA: The aim of the art of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is a conduitive process: To build bridges between what he sees and understands and things he can't see and understand: The aim of the life of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is to see as much of the world as possible and learn within it: And now I will say farewell to you: And I will sing of another man of cyber poetry hypertext poetry digital poetry performance poetry shape poetry prehistoric digital poetry e poetry interactive active passive indifferent positive negative neutral dawn dusk noon midnight sun moon star poetry too:

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser

1964 —

DOUBLE MANGOSTEEN VARIATIONS

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser was born on June 26, 1964 in Barnes Naval Hospital, Saint Louis, Missouri, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's favorite activity as a child was playing and watching sports: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's first job was working stringing tennis rackets at a sporting goods store in Falmouth, Massachusetts, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's mother was born in Buffalo, New York, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was born in Indianapolis, Indiana, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was a naval officer: As a child Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lived in Saint Louis, Missouri, USA: Richmond, Virginia, USA: Chesapeake, Virginia, USA: Norfolk, Virginia, USA: Portsmouth, Virginia, USA: Virginia Beach, Virginia, USA: Cherry Hill, New Jersey, USA: Valley Stream, Long Island, New York, USA: Kingston, Massachusetts, USA: As a child Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loved the beach: Swimming: Aquariums: Baseball: Tennis: Now: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lives in Frelinghuysen Township Warren County, New Jersey: As an adult Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loves his family: Heat: Running: Hydrotherapy: Unconventional poetry: Zazen: Mineral water: Brazil: Mangosteens: The rind of this edible fruit is deep reddish purple when ripe: The fragrant flesh is sweet and creamy citrusy with a touch of peach flavor: In Asia the mangosteen fruit is known as the Queen of Fruits: The shell of mangosteens looks tough and hard but they are soft and easy to open: To open a mangosteen the shell is usually broken apart not cut: One holds the fruit in both hands and presses it gently thumbs on one side the other fingers on the other side until the shell cracks: It is then very easy to pull the halves apart along the crack and remove the fruit taking care with the purplish inky juice that the outer red part of the fruit contains: Mangosteen juice is a dye which can be almost impossible to remove from fabric: This is the reason why they are banned from some hotels in countries where they are available: The softer the shell: The riper the fruit: Hence the more tempting it is to try and press harder: Since it isn't exactly a shell but a thick soft covering the slightest force when ripe will dig into the shell and adversely affect the fruit inside: The fruit will not stay good for long afterwards: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser favorite animal is Groundhog: The favorite idea of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is everything changes: The favorite object of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is his Saint Christopher medal on the back of which is hyperspirit etched: Saint Christopher the giant was carrying the baby Jesus across a stream: Saint Christopher asked the baby Jesus why he was so heavy: The baby Jesus said: Because I bear the sins of the world: Saint Christopher said: No you don't: Don't talk about your self that way: You are a beautiful little human being: Get into love: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser earns his living as an Associate Professor: New Jersey Institute of Technology: Newark: New Jersey, USA: The aim of the art of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is a conducive process: To build bridges between what he sees and under stands and things he can't see and understand: The aim of the life of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is to see as much of the world as possible and learn within it: And now I will say farewell to you: And I will sing of another man of cyber poetry hypertext poetry digital poetry performance poetry shape poetry prehistoric digital poetry e poetry interactive active passive indifferent positive negative neutral dawn dusk noon midnight sun moon star and peaches and pears that are ripe poetry too:

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser

1964 —

DOUBLE MANGOSTEEN VARIATIONS

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser was born on June 26, 1964 in Barnes Naval Hospital, Saint Louis, Missouri, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's favorite activity as a child was playing and watching sports: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's first job was working stringing tennis rackets at a sporting goods store in Falmouth, Massachusetts, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's mother was born in Buffalo, New York, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was born in Indianapolis, Indiana, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was a naval officer: As a child Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lived in Saint Louis, Missouri, USA: Richmond, Virginia, USA: Chesapeake, Virginia, USA: Norfolk, Virginia, USA: Portsmouth, Virginia, USA: Virginia Beach, Virginia, USA: Cherry Hill, New Jersey, USA: Valley Stream, Long Island, New York, USA: Kingston, Massachusetts, USA: As a child Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loved the beach: Swimming: Aquariums: Baseball: Tennis: Now: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lives in Frelinghuysen Township Warren County, New Jersey: As an adult Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loves his family: Heat: Running: Hydrotherapy: Unconventional poetry: Zazen: Mineral water: Brazil: Mangosteens: The rind of this edible fruit is deep reddish purple when ripe: The fragrant flesh is sweet and creamy citrusy with a touch of peach flavor: In Asia the mangosteen fruit is known as the Queen of Fruits: The shell of mangosteens looks tough and hard but they are soft and easy to open: To open a mangosteen the shell is usually broken apart not cut: One holds the fruit in both hands and presses it gently thumbs on one side the other fingers on the other side until the shell cracks: It is then very easy to pull the halves apart along the crack and remove the fruit taking care with the purplish inky juice that the outer red part of the fruit contains: Mangosteen juice is a dye which can be almost impossible to remove from fabric: This is the reason why they are banned from some hotels in countries where they are available: The softer the shell: The riper the fruit: Hence the more tempting it is to try and press harder: Since it isn't exactly a shell but a thick soft covering the slightest force when ripe will dig into the shell and adversely affect the fruit inside: The fruit will not stay good for long afterwards: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser favorite animal is Groundhog: The favorite idea of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is everything changes: The favorite object of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is his Saint Christopher medal on the back of which is hyperspirit etched: Saint Christopher the giant was carrying the baby Jesus across a stream: Saint Christopher asked the baby Jesus why he was so heavy: The baby Jesus said: Because I bear the sins of the world: Saint Christopher said: No you don't: Don't talk about your Self that way: You are a beautiful little human being: Get into love: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser earns his living as an Associate Professor, New Jersey Institute of Technology, Newark, New Jersey, USA: The aim of the art of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is a conduitive process: To build bridges between what he sees and understands and things he can't see and understand: The aim of the life of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is to see as much of the world as possible and learn within it: And now I will say farewell to you: And I will sing of another man of cyber poetry hypertext poetry digital poetry performance poetry shape poetry prehistoric digital poetry e poetry interactive active passive indifferent positive negative neutral dawn dusk noon midnight sun moon star poetry too:

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser

1964 —

DOUBLE MANGOSTEEN VARIATIONS

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser was born on June 26, 1964 in Barnes Naval Hospital, Saint Louis, Missouri, USA; Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's favorite activity as a child was playing and watching sports; Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's first job was working stringing tennis rackets at a sporting goods store in Falmouth, Massachusetts, USA; Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's mother was born in Buffalo, New York, USA; Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was born in Indianapolis, Indiana, USA; Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was a naval officer; As a child Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lived in Saint Louis, Missouri, USA; Richmond, Virginia, USA; Chesapeake, Virginia, USA; Norfolk, Virginia, USA; Portsmouth, Virginia, USA; Virginia Beach, Virginia, USA; Cherry Hill, New Jersey, USA; Valley Stream, Long Island, New York, USA; Kingston, Massachusetts, USA; As a child Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loved the beach; Swimming; Aquariums; Baseball; Tennis; Now: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lives in Frelinghuysen Township Warren County, New Jersey; As an adult Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loves his family; Heat; Running; Hydrotherapy; Unconventional poetry; Zazen; Mineral water; Brazil; Mangosteens: The rind of this edible fruit is deep reddish purple when ripe: The fragrant flesh is sweet and creamy citrusy with a touch of peach flavor: In Asia the mangosteen fruit is known as the Queen of Fruits: The shell of mangosteens looks tough and hard but they are soft and easy to open: To open a mangosteen the shell is usually broken apart not cut: One holds the fruit in both hands and presses it gently thumbs on one side the other fingers on the other side until the shell cracks: It is then very easy to pull the halves apart along the crack and remove the fruit taking care with the purplish inky juice that the outer red part of the fruit contains: Mangosteen juice is a dye which can be almost impossible to remove from fabric: This is the reason why they are banned from some hotels in countries where they are available: The softer the shell: The riper the fruit: Hence the more tempting it is to try and press harder: Since it isn't exactly a shell but a thick soft covering the slightest force when ripe will dig into the shell and adversely affect the fruit inside: The fruit will not stay good for long afterwards: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser favorite animal is Groundhog: The favorite idea of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is everything changes: The favorite object of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is his Saint Christopher medal on the back of which is hyperspirit etched: Saint Christopher the giant was carrying the baby Jesus across a stream: Saint Christopher asked the baby Jesus why he was so heavy: The baby Jesus said: Because I bear the sins of the world: Saint Christopher said: No you don't: Don't talk about your Self that way: You are a beautiful little human being: Get into love: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser earns his living as an Associate Professor: New Jersey Institute of Technology: Newark: New Jersey, USA: The aim of the art of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is a conduitive process: To build bridges between what he sees and understands and things he can't see and understand: The aim of the life of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is to see as much of the world as possible and learn within it: And now I will say farewell to you: And I will sing of another man of cyber poetry hypertext poetry digital poetry performance poetry shape poetry prehistoric digital poetry e poetry interactive active passive indifferent positive negative neutral dawn dusk noon midnight sun moon star and peaches and pears that are ripe poetry too:

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser

1964—

DOUBLE MANGOSTEEN VARIATIONS

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser
was born on June 26, 1964 in Barnes Naval Hospital, Saint Louis, Missouri, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's
favorite activity as a child was playing and watching sports: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's first job was working stringing tennis rackets at a sporting
goods store in Falmouth, Massachusetts, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's mother
was born in Buffalo, New York, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was born in Indianapolis, Indiana, USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was a naval officer: As a child
Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lived in Saint Louis, Missouri, USA: Richmond, Virginia, USA: Chesapeake,
Virginia, USA: Norfolk, Virginia, USA: Portsmouth, Virginia, USA: Virginia Beach, Virginia, USA: Cherry Hill,
New Jersey, USA: Valley Stream, Long Island, New York, USA: Kingston, Massachusetts, USA: As a child
Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loved the beach: Swimming: Aquariums: Baseball: Tennis: Now: Christopher
Thompson Funkhouser lives in Frelinghuysen Township Warren County, New Jersey: As an adult Christopher
Thompson Funkhouser loves his family: Heat: Running: Hydrotherapy: Unconventional poetry: Zazen: Mineral water:
Brazil: Mangosteens: The rind of this edible fruit is deep reddish purple when ripe: The fragrant flesh is sweet and
creamy citrusy with a touch of peach flavor: In Asia the mangosteen fruit is known as the Queen of Fruits: The shell of
mangosteens looks tough and hard but they are soft and easy to open: To open a mangosteen the shell is usually broken
apart not cut: One holds the fruit in both hands and presses it gently thumbs on one side the other fingers on the other side until the shell cracks: It is then very easy to pull the halves apart along the crack and remove the fruit taking care
with the purplish inky juice that the outer red part of the fruit contains: Mangosteen juice is a dye which can be almost impossible to remove from fabric: This is the reason why they are banned from some hotels in countries where they are available: The softer the shell: The riper the fruit: Hence the more tempting it is to try and press harder: Since
it isn't exactly a shell but a thick soft covering the slightest force when ripe will dig into the shell and adversely affect the fruit inside: The fruit will not stay good for long afterwards: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser
favorite animal is Groundhog: The favorite idea of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is everything
changes: The favorite object of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is his Saint Christopher medal on the back of which is hyperspirit etched: Saint Christopher the giant was carrying the baby Jesus
across a stream: Saint Christopher asked the baby Jesus why he was so heavy: The baby Jesus
said: Because I bear the sins of the world: Saint Christopher said: No you don't: Don't talk about your Self that way: You are a beautiful little human being: Get into love: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser earns his living as an Associate Professor: New Jersey Institute of Technology: Newark: New Jersey: USA: The aim of the art of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is a conduitive process: To build bridges between what he sees and under stands and things he can't see and understand: The aim of the life of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is to see as much of the world as possible and learn
within it: And now I will say farewell to you: And I will sing of another
man of cyber poetry hypertext poetry digital poetry performance
poetry shape poetry prehistoric digital poetry e poetry interactive
active passive indifferent positive negative neutral dawn
dusk noon midnight sun moon star poetry too:

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser

1964—

DOUBLE MANGOSTEEN VARIATIONS

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser
was born on June 26, 1964 in Barnes Naval Hospital, Saint Louis: Missouri: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's
favorite activity as a child was playing and watching sports: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's first job was working stringing tennis rackets at a sporting
goods store in Falmouth: Massachusetts: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's mother
was born in Buffalo: New York: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was born in Indianapolis: Indiana: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was a naval officer: As a child
Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lived in Saint Louis: Missouri: USA: Richmond: Virginia: USA: Chesapeake:
Virginia: USA: Norfolk: Virginia: USA: Portsmouth: Virginia: USA: Virginia Beach: Virginia: USA: Cherry Hill
New Jersey: USA: Valley Stream: Long Island: New York: USA: Kingston: Massachusetts: USA: As a child
Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loved the beach: Swimming: Aquariums: Baseball: Tennis: Now: Christopher
Thompson Funkhouser lives in Frelinghuysen Township Warren County: New Jersey: As an adult Christopher
Thompson Funkhouser loves his family: Heat: Running: Hydrotherapy: Unconventional poetry: Zazen: Mineral water:
Brazil: Mangosteens: The rind of this edible fruit is deep reddish purple when ripe: The fragrant flesh is sweet and
creamy citrusy with a touch of peach flavor: In Asia the mangosteen fruit is known as the Queen of Fruits: The shell of
mangosteens looks tough and hard but they are soft and easy to open: To open a mangosteen the shell is usually broken
apart not cut: One holds the fruit in both hands and presses it gently thumbs on one side the other fingers on the other side until the shell cracks: It is then very easy to pull the halves apart along the crack and remove the fruit taking care
with the purplish inky juice that the outer red part of the fruit contains: Mangosteen juice is a dye which can be almost impossible to remove from fabric: This is the reason why they are banned from some hotels in countries where they are available: The softer the shell: The riper the fruit: Hence the more tempting it is to try and press harder: Since
it isn't exactly a shell but a thick soft covering the slightest force when ripe will dig into the shell and adversely affect the fruit inside: The fruit will not stay good for long afterwards: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser
favorite animal is Groundhog: The favorite idea of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is everything changes: The favorite object of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is his Saint Christopher medal on the back of which is hyperspirit etched: Saint Christopher the giant was carrying the baby Jesus
across a stream: Saint Christopher asked the baby Jesus why he was so heavy: The baby Jesus said: Because I bear the sins of the world: Saint Christopher said: No you don't: Don't talk about your self that way: You are a beautiful little human being: Get into love: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser earns his living as an Associate Professor: New Jersey Institute of Technology: Newark: New Jersey: USA: The aim of the art of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is a conduitive process: To build bridges between what he sees and under stands and things he can't see and understand: The aim of the life of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is to see as much of the world as possible and learn
within it: And now I will say farewell to you: And I will sing of another
man of cyber poetry hypertext poetry digital poetry performance
poetry shape poetry prehistoric digital poetry e poetry interactive
active passive indifferent positive negative neutral dawn
dusk noon midnight sun moon star and peaches
and pears that are ripe poetry too:

NOTES:

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser

Photo by Jorge Luiz Antonio

<http://web.njit.edu/~funkhous/online.html>

NOTES:

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser

Photo by Jorge Luiz Antonio

<http://web.njit.edu/~funkhous/online.html>

ABSTRACT

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser
was born on June 26, 1964 in Barnes Naval Hospital, Saint Louis: Missouri: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's
favorite activity as a child was playing and watching sports: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's first job was working stringing tennis rackets at a sporting
goods store in Falmouth: Massachusetts: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's mother
was born in Buffalo: New York: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was born in Indianapolis: Indiana: USA: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was a naval officer: As a child
Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lived in Saint Louis: Missouri: USA: Richmond: Virginia: USA: Chesapeake:
Virginia: USA: Norfolk: Virginia: USA: Portsmouth: Virginia: USA: Virginia Beach: Virginia: USA: Cherry Hill
New Jersey: USA: Valley Stream: Long Island: New York: USA: Kingston: Massachusetts: USA: As a child
Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loved the beach: Swimming: Aquariums: Baseball: Tennis: Now: Christopher
Thompson Funkhouser lives in Frelinghuysen Township Warren County: New Jersey: As an adult Christopher
Thompson Funkhouser loves his family: Heat: Running: Hydrotherapy: Unconventional poetry: Zazen: Mineral water:
Brazil: Mangosteens: The rind of this edible fruit is deep reddish purple when ripe: The fragrant flesh is sweet and
creamy citrusy with a touch of peach flavor: In Asia the mangosteen fruit is known as the Queen of Fruits: The shell of
mangosteens looks tough and hard but they are soft and easy to open: To open a mangosteen the shell is usually broken
apart not cut: One holds the fruit in both hands and presses it gently thumbs on one side the other fingers on the other side until the shell cracks: It is then very easy to pull the halves apart along the crack and remove the fruit taking care
with the purplish inky juice that the outer red part of the fruit contains: Mangosteen juice is a dye which can be almost impossible to remove from fabric: This is the reason why they are banned from some hotels in countries where they are available: The softer the shell: The riper the fruit: Hence the more tempting it is to try and press harder: Since
it isn't exactly a shell but a thick soft covering the slightest force when ripe will dig into the shell and adversely affect the fruit inside: The fruit will not stay good for long afterwards: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser
favorite animal is Groundhog: The favorite idea of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is everything changes: The favorite object of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is his Saint Christopher medal on the back of which is hyperspirit etched: Saint Christopher the giant was carrying the baby Jesus
across a stream: Saint Christopher asked the baby Jesus why he was so heavy: The baby Jesus said: Because I bear the sins of the world: Saint Christopher said: No you don't: Don't talk about your Self that way: You are a beautiful little human being: Get into love: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser earns his living as an Associate Professor: New Jersey Institute of Technology: Newark: New Jersey: USA: The aim of the art of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is a conduitive process: To build bridges between what he sees and under stands and things he can't see and understand: The aim of the life of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is to see as much of the world as possible and learn
within it: And now I will say farewell to you: And I will sing of another
man of cyber poetry hypertext poetry digital poetry performance
poetry shape poetry prehistoric digital poetry e poetry interactive
active passive indifferent positive negative neutral dawn
dusk noon midnight sun moon star poetry too:

ABSTRACT

Christopher Thompson Funkhouser
was born on June 26, 1964 in Barnes Naval Hospital, Saint Louis, Missouri, USA; Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's
favorite activity as a child was playing and watching sports; Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's first job was working stringing tennis rackets at a sporting
goods store in Falmouth, Massachusetts, USA; Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's mother
was born in Buffalo, New York, USA; Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was born in Indianapolis, Indiana, USA; Christopher Thompson Funkhouser's father was a naval officer; As a child
Christopher Thompson Funkhouser lived in Saint Louis, Missouri, USA; Richmond, Virginia, USA; Chesapeake,
Virginia, USA; Norfolk, Virginia, USA; Portsmouth, Virginia, USA; Virginia Beach, Virginia, USA; Cherry Hill
New Jersey, USA; Valley Stream, Long Island, New York, USA; Kingston, Massachusetts, USA; As a child
Christopher Thompson Funkhouser loved the beach; Swimming; Aquariums; Baseball; Tennis; Now; Christopher
Thompson Funkhouser lives in Frelinghuysen Township Warren County, New Jersey; As an adult Christopher
Thompson Funkhouser loves his family; Heat; Running; Hydrotherapy; Unconventional poetry; Zazen; Mineral water; Brazil; Mangosteens: The rind of this edible fruit is deep reddish purple when ripe: The fragrant flesh is sweet and
creamy citrusy with a touch of peach flavor: In Asia the mangosteen fruit is known as the Queen of Fruits: The shell of
mangosteens looks tough and hard but they are soft and easy to open: To open a mangosteen the shell is usually broken
apart not cut: One holds the fruit in both hands and presses it gently thumbs on one side the other fingers on the other side until the shell cracks: It is then very easy to pull the halves apart along the crack and remove the fruit taking care
with the purplish inky juice that the outer red part of the fruit contains: Mangosteen juice is a dye which can be almost impossible to remove from fabric: This is the reason why they are banned from some hotels in countries where they are available: The softer the shell: The riper the fruit: Hence the more tempting it is to try and press harder: Since
it isn't exactly a shell but a thick soft covering the slightest force when ripe will dig into the shell and adversely affect the fruit inside: The fruit will not stay good for long afterwards: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser
favorite animal is Groundhog: The favorite idea of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is everything changes: The favorite object of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is his Saint Christopher medal on the back of which is hyperspirit etched: Saint Christopher the giant was carrying the baby Jesus
across a stream: Saint Christopher asked the baby Jesus why he was so heavy: The baby Jesus
said: Because I bear the sins of the world: Saint Christopher said: No you don't: Don't talk about your Self that way: You are a beautiful little human being: Get into love: Christopher Thompson Funkhouser earns his living as an Associate Professor: New Jersey Institute of Technology: Newark: New Jersey, USA: The aim of the art of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is a conduitive process: To build bridges between what he sees and under stands and things he can't see and understand: The aim of the life of Christopher Thompson Funkhouser is to see as much of the world as possible and learn
within it: And now I will say farewell to you: And I will sing of another
man of cyber poetry hypertext poetry digital poetry performance
poetry shape poetry prehistoric digital poetry e poetry interactive
active passive indifferent positive negative neutral dawn
dusk noon midnight sun moon star and peaches
and pears that are ripe poetry too: