NOTE:

Good eveningk, good morningk, good inkgingk all, one of the ideas i am playing around with today is of "establishing" material links to my Cathedral. A mail address i have been writing to gave me the idea. It isn't a real idea, it's just a collection of things or words i noticed floating around lately.

As you now know, or should know by now, my Cathedral is something trying to define itself in lots of ways, one of which is an Absent Cathedral located at <http://www.vilt.net/nkdee> (some folk insist on calling it virtual, i prefer the term Absent) although it is difficult to maintain a URL is an actual location so it is perhaps better to assume the exact location of my Cathedral is in Kessel-lo, a small suburban area near Louvain in Belgium, Europe.

Well, er, ahum, i'm just making this up as i type but some places on the earth globe would be kinda overcoded by the Cathedral, petitions would be send to local authorities to recognise the place as being part of the Globally Absent Cathedral, meaning that the area described precisely would become officially Nomansland, not belonging to humans any more.

The only activity allowed within Nomansland is Garbage Collecting and Processing, but since humans are not allowed within the designated area everything would have to be automated. The Country where this Chosen Spot is situated should publically renounce all legal claims to the exactly described territory. Since there is no way in telling what the actual Cathedral might look like or become or behave, no garantuees could be offered so the only thing in return the Country in question would receive is a Pledge of Good Faith from all of us, the humans of this planet. I'll see what i can do to translate the words "We, the humans on planet Earth Pledge to [the Country, government of] that we believe the hereby initialised but Absent Cathedral has no intention whatsoever to harm or hurt your people in any way. Instead we think initialising this Cathedral will be beneficial for everyone living in your Country". I would personally prefer to choose places where the standard of living is miserable to pretty low because these places tend to be more in need of Cathedrals then the affluent regions of our globe. Naturally there is no-one in Charge of the Cathedral, how on earth could you run a thing that isn't there.

Within such area something we would now call a server center would be established that would offer, in return for electricity and a T1 cable connection, free access to all Garbage Processing Facilities (GPF) for all people living within a 100 km range of the Zone (GBF might be software running in web-interface mode, i don't know the thing will have to further define itself, i imagine it having a lot to do with what now is called Open Source Software, Free Art Licenced code, we'll have to see about that, i guess it will involve a lot of that ai stuff too). Please note that the Cathedral Zones like my Cathedral as mentioned above, would require no religious or political interpretation but of course one cannot forbid anybody to interpret anything the way they want. Heck i've heard people describing my Absence as Art too, as if anybody would ever pay to see it while everybody knows it's not there. Soit. as you know most of the problems concerning Open source and Free stuff is that they tend to end up being very Closed and Expensive or Unsuitable for Local needs, so perhaps if you provide some initial pseudo magical, auratical or whatever you call the lack material bonding or tangible vinculum to the thing it might head off in a more Rapid Deployment Mode, which er, with all the tycoons and stuff i think might be a NotSoBadIdea.

Anyway, people wanting to access the GPF from further away would have to pay per visit to the authorities of the Country where the Cathedral is situated in a ratio decided on the difference between the local connection cost and the BP of the country they live in on the one hand and the local connection cost/BP of the Hosting Country on the other hand.

In order to establish the Zones, we would need to follow this order or sequence of events strictly (i know this from experience, you can bs around as much as you like but you need to get the protocol right from the start. I call this the Cathedral Initialisation Protocol but you can call it the Great Mickey Mouse Ticker Parade for all i care):

- someone living in an area remote from Kessel-lo (that's where i live, here in Belgium) would choose a small piece of land that nobody seems to want. The area need not be greater than 50 or 100 m<sup>2</sup>. Perhaps it would be best to check with some geographic institutes to make sure there's no oil or gas underneath cause we're running short on that and there's likely to be some mess where such things are still beneath the surface. As a general rule i think we'd better avoid any property that is considered valuable in any way. It is however highly recommended to pick a place in whose surroundings lot's of people live (see below)

- as many local people as possible would be asked to deliver "artistic" materials such as drawings, hand written texts, photographs, statues or minatures, artisanal produces, poems, embroideries, cuttings, paintings to the place in order to sell them at 27 september of the year of initialisation. It is absolutely required that the local Garbage would be collected by anonymous Cathedral workers by going from human dwelling place to human dwelling place (door to door if there are any) in what is known as a Counter Clockwise Psychogeografic Spiral Pattern: you start with your back facing the designated area and your face facing East and then you move right towards the first human dwelling place (door)

- The money collected by this initial sale would go into providing an absolute minimum of building at the place; a roof, 4 walls and a door. The building should be constructed windowless and should provide the possibility of having a second floor and a staircase leading there. If the money provided by the art sale is not sufficient (it never will be) a big trunk or log of wood should be acquired and inscribed with the words HABET CASAM (this is Latin for "It has a house", i prefer to use Latin for things like this because the Roman empire is no longer with us so nobody can accuse the Protocol from being favorite to any living language or the people who speak it. The words should be painted yellow ochre with Chinese Watercolour paint of the trademark "Marie's" and varnished in three layers with boat varnish. Well someone needs to get rich of a project like this or it wouldn't be a project so it might as well be the people producing this excellent and very cheap Watercolour paint with which innumerable Masterful pieces of Garbage were and are being produced. Let us be generous and call it a small sacrifice to Capitalism as we used to know it in Thoughtfull Memory of its Sweatshops.

- Please note that at this point the Cathedral is still absent and will remain that way indefinetely. Having a house doesn't imply being present, you can check most of the worlds legal code on that.

- At the end of the year of initialisation (31 december) an international Call for Garbage would be initialised on the Network to deliver material remnants of "artistic", "creative" activity. At this stage no code would be accepted, only material stuff (things you can touch). Several known Artists will be asked to start sending out chain-like letters in a 16-bit resolution way (one Artist sends 16 letters containing 1 material "artistic" abject, a piece of Garbage to 16 people She knows with the request for that person to send 15 people a similar request and Her reworking of the received Garbage to the designated New Cathedral Address. Local museums, cafés, restaurants and libraries would be requested to store the Garbage at a place where people can see it until further notice. Local People would be encouraged to upload pictures of the Collected Garbage to the Network (aka Internet/ www). It should be noted that at this time the Collected Garbage is now officially the property of the Nomansland and the Absent Cathedral in It, so everybody should be dealing with objects very carefully because you never know what the initialised but as yet Absent Cathedral might come up with in the way of retaliation for Damaged or Incorrectly Processed Garbage

- In the year following the year of initialisation on 17 september all the Collected Garbage would need to be put on sale for a ten day bidding period using (preferable) an Open Source bidding web-application working like the Ebay stuff. It is recommended that the Local people running the Local Museums etc who where asked to store the Garbage Collection provisionally should have a meeting on say the first of september to decide which web-application to use. The discussion should be held by these people while walking away from the Chosen Spot in the same Counter Clockwise Psychogeografic Spiral Pattern until they reach an agreement. As a general recommendation the procedure of walking away from the Cathedral in a CCPSP is a good way to reach decisions concerning the Cathedral whenever a group of people think there are in fact decisions to be made. In general that shouldn't happen to often, by now you should have understood that Cathedrals have a comfortable habit of taking care of themselves, although of course the presence of some Authoring Processes is required to keep things going for longer than today.

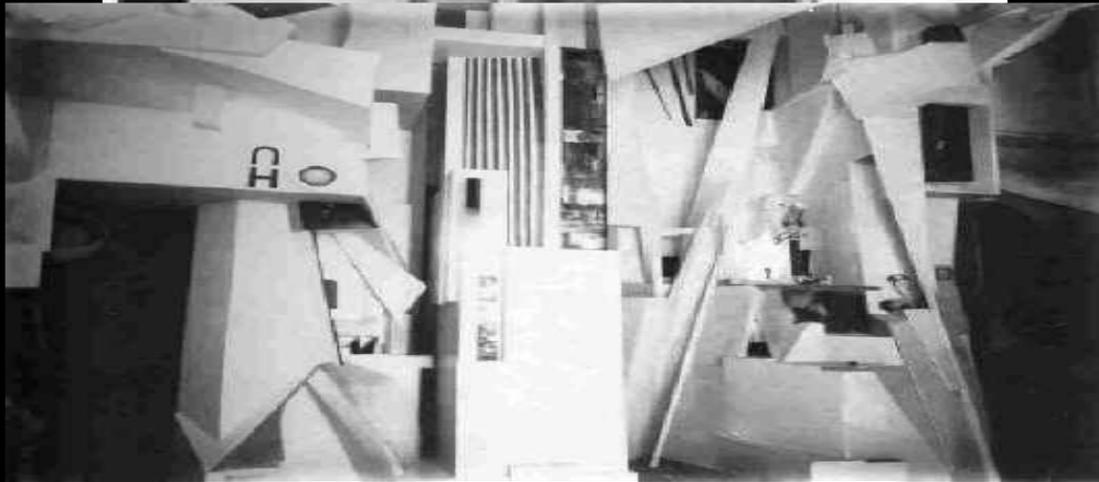

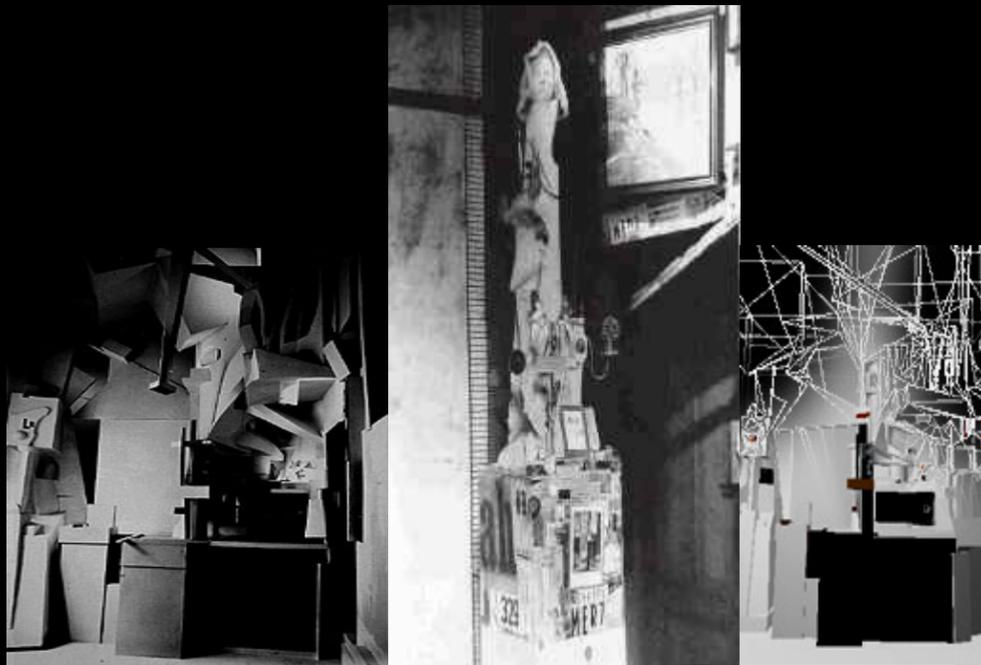

- Perhaps the only other thing to say is how the financial stuff should be arranged. I propose The United Nations or some bozo should be requested to register a domain name NKdeE.org or something and that consequently a mail adress would be created there like world@... that would get a Paypal-like account so that everybody can pay to that account when acquiring Cathedral Garbage. Perhaps the UN folks should first initialise a little private Cathedral in New York say at Ground Zero or something and the aforementioned bozo at hie bozo place so that they can all walk away from that to decide on the details, cause once you're at this level you need a lot of the walking away stuff i think.

Most other things would most likely take care of themselves, i think. Well, heck i don't know perhaps it would be nice to produce our Garbage with Something Absent in Mind instead Immortality or 3,25 minutes of Fame or a Load of Cash, but i guess i'm a bit of a weirdo, so if you like the idea, and you're better at this kinda thing, change it some, translate it in your terms or completely, cut my name of it and send it around to some other mail addresses, i'll now go back to minding my own business, i still need to do a painting of the Cathedral-Mother Dropping Her Soap in the Shower just a Moment Ago for instance.

greetings,
