immediate dissent: Shits triumph: The child: In stately: Plump intervals of student reverence obediently puts down: Good Night Mr. Bland:

On top of: Scare Me With Dumb Fake Animals In The Attic: The child slowly: Meaningfully: Perhaps as a shady priest in a fear charged darkening attic grove mystery ceremony's pre performance rehearsal in light as umber dark as bosco syrup on chocolate ice ceres: Puts on small wire rim eyeglasses with coke bottle lenses: A wry smile as cruel as a melting snowball in the heart: A Halloween Proudhon black beard: A large broad brim black hat: A rough black cape: Black leather boots with turned up toes: She puts on her open peach fresh face the arcane look of the Cocteau retro pigeon killer entral reader: She begins to squirm uneasily with: Looking around corners for dead Tsarist secret police: Forehead shrugs: She lifts her collectable Da Fé Canard secret agent black bowling ball bomb with a number two Nobel fuse: And in the other hand she solemnly picks up her thumb worn copy of: Fathers And Sons: She reads: She subtly snickers the dark milky way of the evil Midwestern eastern European: Suddenly: The child throws Turgenev on the floor: Stomps up and down ten times on the book: Yells: "DADA! DADA! DADA! DADA!" Harlé vomits purple mountain majesties of purple grain: John Wirtz smirks proudly: "Now:" He asks the child:

"What is the aim of your art?": To this the lovely child sneers: "Anti-Art:" John Wirtz again asks this quiet spark of anarchist brilliance: "And of your life: What is the aim?":

The Child snickers: Munching dark milky way stars: She draws
